

TU9-Universities take a stand for Cosmopolitanism, Respect and Tolerance.

Universities are open communities based on mutual tolerance and respect. TU9-Universities stand for excellent science made in Germany. Excellence in science is based on independence, diversity in opinion and culture, and freedom of expression; it flourishes in environments that embrace the broadest range of people, and is predicated on the values of inclusion, respect, and civility.

At TU9-Universities scientists work in international research groups; gaining knowledge and fueling technological developments that are essential for the innovative power and potential of Science in Germany. Our Universities welcome students from across the nation and around the world. We provide open-minded learning environments in the shared context of a richly diverse society. We are equitable communities that are diverse as well as inclusive and that protect the human rights of their members. The sharing and transfer of knowledge and the critical exchange in respect and openness are the pillars of this community. The evidence based process that is science is based on and intricately tied to a commitment to freedom of speech and expression, tolerance and respect. TU9-Universities are defined by their diversity and condemn all forms of racism and discrimination.
